

Final Project Report Deliverable

You will produce a final project report that you will submit via Canvas.

There is not a page or word minimum or maximum for this report, but as this is representing what you spent your 15-20 hours on I would recommend you be comprehensive and include your topic, work and scope, hours and what you worked on, what challenges you faced and how you overcame them, and any insights or takeaways you gained from the project.

At a minimum we will be expecting to see:

- General Info:
 - Final Project Presentation Slides Link:  SI 339: Personal Portfolio
 - Site Link (Coding): <https://lilysteinmetz.github.io/finalproject/>
 - Git Repository Link (Coding): <https://github.com/lilysteinmetz/finalproject.git>
- 04/09
 - Hours spent: 3 hours
 - Challenges: It took me about 15 minutes to realize why my CSS wasn't working and then I realized that I put all of my html into a folder!!!!
 - Successes: Successfully started/almost finished the homepage of my portfolio and styled it as well, in mobile view. I added my picture and bio as well as what I'm up to. I decided the "theme" of my portfolio after lots of trial and error with color and design. I wanted to do lots of design to display my skill, however my "vibe" is very minimalist as a person and I wanted my portfolio to reflect that.

 - Hours spent: 3 hours
 - Challenges: Figuring out how to get my flip cards to display grid was really difficult. All of my flip cards were lying on top of each other and when I would flip the cards, the writing would all display above of the flip cards instead of on top.
 - Successes: Started my work page, added all of the content and pictures and decided I wanted to do a hover property over the photos to display the content from the project on the other side, definitely going to be where most of my work is, was able to figure out flip cards but not how to display them properly
- 04/11
 - Hours spent: 3 hours

- Challenges: Just styling all of my pages is really taking a long time figuring out what I like is hard with so much freedom. The responsive design is also difficult because I style one thing and then it doesn't look in line with everything else so I need to go back and edit through the rest of my portfolio.
- Successes: I figured out how to get my cards to display grid using a container and display grid with it.
- 04/12
 - Hours spent: 4.5 hours
 - Challenges: Trying to make this contact form, struggling a lot on getting it to actually work and can not figure out what is wrong with it. I have been doing research on W3 schools but everything I try there is an error when I click the submit button. I've tried 5 different methods and I'm even unable to style it correctly. The whole layout is messed up and all of the boxes are laying on top of eachother.
 - Successes: Finished my work page, all of the content and all of the styling
- 04/12
 - Hours spent: 4.5 hours
 - Challenges: Figured out the contact form and the layout of it, but now struggling with making sure that the message gets emailed to me
 - Successes: Added a lot of styling including a footer with my email and linkedin icon and lots of javascript animation when you scroll through my website, content appears, as well as a new html page for my resume page
- 04/19
 - Hours spent: 3 hours
 - Challenges: The accessibility was really frustrating, I seemed to have errors on almost every platform, and everytime I fixed one I'd have to go back and fix the new errors and it felt like I was in a loop.
 - Successes: I ended up just attaching a formspree link to my contact form, it now works! Did all of my accessibility checks and fixed all of my errors.
